

Healthy
Workplaces
for All Ages

PETER RIMMER

Napo Consortium

Peter Rimmer is a freelance writer, photographer and communications specialist who was Director of Communications with the UK Health and Safety Executive (HSE) for 16 years until the end of 2003. He was campaign manager at the European Agency for Safety and Health at Work (EU-OSHA) in Bilbao from 2005 to 2007, and has moderated numerous technical workshops and seminars for EU-OSHA including 'Successful campaign planning'. Peter was editor of Health Protection Matters for five years, a quarterly magazine published by the UK Health Protection Agency, and chairs the juries of the International Media Festival of the ISSA/ILO World Congress and the Healthy Workplaces Award at the annual DOK Leipzig Documentary Film Festival. He is a founder and coordinator of the Napo series of short animation films about safety and health at work, and an Assessor for the Corporate Health Standard in Wales. Peter specialises in Para-Sports photojournalism and contributes to disability lifestyle magazines in the UK, USA and Algeria.